

Curriculum Vitae - Emily Mann BA(Econ) MSc

Contact Details:

emily.mann@northumbria.ac.uk

Personal Statement

I am currently undertaking a PhD in Psychology evaluating the impact of holiday provision on children and their families. My passion and commitment to high quality research stems from my proven record of academic achievement and experience of working for research organisations in higher education as well as the voluntary and commercial sector. I have recently graduated with Distinction in MSc Social Research Methods. As part of my postgraduate degree, I completed modules in Food Policy which have provided me with a depth of knowledge on many social issues relating to food and nutrition and explored how policy reflects and shapes the food system. My interest in food poverty has developed from carrying out a research project into 'Identifying and Measuring Food Poverty'.

Qualifications and Academic Achievements

2015 – Present:	Successfully gained a research studentship to study a PhD at Northumbria University
2012 – 2015:	MSc Social Research Methods, City University	Distinction
1994 – 1997:	BA Econ (Hons) Politics, University of Manchester	Upper Second (2:1)

Employment History

2012 – 2015: Freelance Researcher

Conducted a range of social research projects for an Early Years research organisation. In addition I produced and initiated a training programme for young researchers to develop their skills in social research at the Open University's Children's Research Centre.

2004 – 2008: Market Researcher, PR & Events Manager – Brown Forman Wines

2002 – 2004: Marketing & Sales Support Officer – Select Vineyards, Melbourne, Australia

2000 – 2002: Assistant Brand Manager – John E Fells & Sons Ltd

1999 – 2000: Project Co-ordinator – Global Vision International

1998 – 1999: Research Assistant – Middlesex University

Additional Training & Education

2012: Awareness in Bereavement Care Foundation Course, Cruse Bereavement

2001 - 2002: Diploma, Wine & Spirit Education Trust

2000: Advanced Certificate, Wine & Spirit Education Trust